Sometimes life can throw curve-balls which knock us off our feet. We may have seasons where everything we do is fruitful, but let's face it, there are also times when we feel like we're living in plan B. But whatever we're walking through, we need to be reminded where our help comes from.

Deep Rooted, a brand-new women's event from Care for the Family, is an invitation to reassess what things we're drawing from and rely on. You get to hear from real women about how we practically and spiritually grow faith-filled resilience in any season.
